

ALEXANDRIA.

SATURDAY EVENING, SEPTEMBER 20.

Most of the present prominent Radicals in the South, filled with wrath and overflowing with zeal for the African race; bursting with love for the "Stars and Stripes," and ready for anything and anybody for the "Constitution as it is," and the Union as it is," were originally violent pro-slavery men, or secessionists and disunionists. Brownlow was a bitter, brawling slavery man, and professed to hate everything North, especially abolitionists—"Jack Hamilton," of notorious character, was an intensely Southern disunionist; and W. W. Holden, of North Carolina, one of the pushing Radicals of this day, and who has feathered his nest to some extent, and would have feathered it more if they would have permitted him to do so, was a member of the North Carolina Convention which met at Raleigh on the 20th of May, 1861; he voted in favor of the secession ordinance which passed unanimously on that day, according to pledges previously made to his constituents, during his canvass for a seat in that body; he signed the ordinance, and in a day or two afterwards he spoke of it in the Raleigh Standard, of which paper he was then editor, in terms of exultation, joy and triumph. There are others that could be named.

Raymond and Bennett, the New York Times and the New York Herald, alarmed at what they fear are the "symptoms" of Radical success at the North, have taken in their course, and while professing to be friendly to the President and opposed to the ultraism of the day, are recommending the President to each, too, and follow in their wake. If the Radicals are defeated, they will both say "we told you so"—and if the Radicals succeed they will both say, "we told you so!" In either event, they will make out that the influence of their newspapers had much to do with the result!! They are "flies on the couch wheel." Mr. Raymond has declined being a candidate for Congress again.

The Richmond Whig says: "We call upon the country to note the fact that the suggestion of a civil war (so much talked about) did not, and does not come from the South. The voice of the South is for peace." We repeat the call. Let it be remembered by all the world, in the midst of great events which may ensue in this country, that after the late war, the Southern States acquiesced in all that was required of them as the terms of restoration. They have ever since done nothing which could possibly disturb the government. If civil war comes the South has had nothing to do with bringing it on.

The culture of the grape in Virginia is increasing, and we doubt not could be made a profitable business. Mr. Marcus Beck, of Warren county, we are informed, has been very successful, has a fine vineyard, and has manufactured a considerable quantity of excellent wine, and made this year some brandy, which with age, will be equal to any imported liquor. Other gentlemen in the Valley, and in Fauquier and Loudoun are turning their attention to raising grapes for the manufacture of wine.

The correspondent of the New York Herald, from Pittsburg, writes that Gen. Butler's late speech before the Soldier's Convention, does not give satisfaction, and that the "hanging" portion of it, particularly, was not relished by the audience. This may be all so. But we doubt it. We rather expect his auditors, for the most part, entirely agreed with him, and endorsed his sentiments. However, we shall be pleased to be convinced to the contrary. By their fruits we shall know them.

The most accomplished historian of our day writes—"no sophism is too gross to delude minds disconcerted by party spirit." This much accounts for the pertinacity with which some of the radicals hold on to opinions, doctrines, and measures, which, to the eye of reason, are manifestly absurd and dangerous—"Party prejudice and party hatred and malice, have 'disconcerted' their minds."

In his tirade against Mr. Davis and General Lee, in his recent speech at Pittsburg, General Butler, after a furious assault, in words, upon the latter wound up by saying: "I, therefore, again say, that I would make an example of that man." We commend his resolution. If he would only "make an example" of Gen. Lee, what a different Butler he would be from what he is at present!

By the Atlantic cable we have English dates to the 24th. The price of cotton had declined, breadstuffs without change. A great reform meeting was held in Manchester on the 24th. No political news of importance. The New Foundland cable line is again out of order.

The Baltimore Gazette is showing up, the bold and unblushing corruption and extravagance of the Radical City Council of that city, during the administration of Mr. Chapman, the present Mayor, who, himself, figures to great disadvantage.

The drawing for the prizes of the "Union 25th Centenary" is going on in Washington. Every thing seems to be fair in the drawing. No body knows who has drawn the big prizes. There are hints and shrines—but people wait.

The story circulated in the Radical papers that Mr. Myers of Bedford, Pa., a Conservative, had, in a speech, eulogized Booth, the assassin of President Lincoln, is entirely false.

J. A. Hancock and Guy Putter, keepers of a lively stable, in Winchester, have been arrested for issuing and passing counterfeit U. S. currency notes.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

"To show the very age and body of the times."

A fearful gale of wind visited, on Saturday last, the eastern coast of Newfoundland. A great many wrecks are reported. A French frigate was lost at St. Pierre, and several coasters were also wrecked. Over one hundred and fifty bodies were picked up at St. Pierre on Sunday, lost from different vessels.

H. Rives Pollard had a preliminary examination in Baltimore yesterday on the charge of shooting Frederick Hipkins, on Wednesday night, and was released on five thousand dollars bail. Hipkins's wound is serious, though not dangerous.

General Dix yesterday accepted his commission as naval officer at the port of New York, probably preferring that office, with its large salary, to the position as Minister to France, offered him by the President.

General D. Leadbetter, late of the Confederacy, died of apoplexy at Clinton, Canada West, last night. He belonged to Mobile, and left a considerable sum of money and valuable effects where he died.

It is stated on good authority that the Attorney General has declared within a few days that Jefferson Davis will positively be tried for treason. Of the time and place we are not informed.

Judge Perry, of the County Court of Burke county, Ga., declares the functions of the court suspended, in consequence of the military arresting the sheriff for executing the process of said court.

In the New York Protestant Episcopal Convention yesterday an offer was received from a source not stated of fifty thousand dollars to establish two new dioceses at Albany and Brooklyn.

VIRGINIA NEWS.

The Lexington Gazette says:—"A large number of Students and Cadets have come in during the last week from all parts of our State and the South, and the numbers at both institutions are increasing daily. Already, we understand, there are 260 odd at College and 147 at the Institute. Every State from the South, and many of the Northern and Western States are represented in College. Massachusetts and Kansas each send a representative. Tennessee, next to Virginia, sends the largest delegation, next Kentucky and then Texas."

The trial of J. E. Ellis for the killing of Wm. Luckess, at Lexington, Va., took place last week. Ellis, it will be recalled, came on to Lexington, to enter as a pupil in the Military Institute. After most elaborate arguments by counsel, the jury retired, but were unable to agree on a verdict, and were discharged.

John T. Robertson was tried at the last term of the Stafford Circuit Court, Judge Thomas presiding, for the murder of Gus Avery and Nancy Limbick in August last. The particulars of this horrible murder were published at the time. Robertson has been found guilty, and sentenced to be hung on the 16th of November.

Gen. Wickham denies that he is the author of the letter read by Mr. Bots, as coming "from a distinguished officer of the Federal army." He takes occasion in this denial to defend his position, and his political opposition to those who brought about secession.

Mr. R. B. Catherwood, of New York city, purchased, on Wednesday, one of the most valuable gold mines in this State, recently discovered by Mr. Benjamin Smith and Brothers, of Spotsylvania county. The sale was made for about $50,000 cash.

The proposed consolidation of the Virginia and Tennessee Railroad with the Southside and Norfolk Railroads, is vehemently opposed by writers in the various Lynchburg newspapers.

A lot of bright yellow leaf tobacco was sold at the Tobacco Exchange in Richmond yesterday, at the unprecedented price of one thousand dollars per hundred pounds.

Mrs. Gen. T. J. Jackson and daughter are now on a visit to Lexington.

Chatham Bridge, at Fredericksburg, has been completed.

THE PRESIDENT.—The statement having prevailed that the President is about to modify his policy to the extent of recommending the proposed Constitutional amendments to the adoption of the Southern unrepresented States, authority is given for a most emphatic denial. The President considers that the amendments were prepared in violation of the fifth article of the Constitution, and are therefore invalid, and that it would be in contravention of his oath of office to encourage them in any way. There is, however, reason to believe that he contemplates recommending to Congress at its approaching session, first, the admission of the representatives of all the States, and then the proposal of amendments to the Constitution, embracing in a less objectionable form, the essential elements of those now pending.—Wash. Cor. N. Y. Herald.

ALEXANDRIA CANAL.—That the people of Georgetown do not much relish the reopening of the Alexandria Canal is tolerably well evinced by the following article, which we take from the Georgetown Courier. "On last Tuesday the Aqueduct was by order of Major General Canby, surrendered to the lessees of the Alexandria Canal. This is a most unfortunate and unlooked for blow to the interest of Georgetown. All travel must henceforth be by the inconvenient way of the Long Bridge. A still more disagreeable and fatal consequence, however, will be experienced in the loss of the coal trade of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal, which has been hitherto considered by our citizens as a chief source of their prosperity, and of which Alexandria has been justly jealous ever since the appropriation of the Aqueduct to Government purposes. Necessity of travel requires a free ferry, which the canal company must furnish, or run the risk of an injunction, which can be levied. It is said that the President of the Alexandria canal Company has directed that the way shall be kept open for the passage of wagons, as long as they do not interfere with the work of refitting the Aqueduct for use."

NOT THERE.—Sumner, says the New York World, was not present at the reception of the Torch-and-Turpentine tourists in Boston. It would have been unpleasant to meet that gallant "Southern loyalist" Jack Hamilton, who in 1850, presided at a meeting in Galveston called to present a cane to Preston S. Brooks for soundly flogging Sumner.

There are 7,000 U. S. office holders in and for the State of New York, for three branches of the government alone.

Ague and fever is prevailing in Lynchburg—a very unusual disease in that city.

LETTER FROM MEMPHIS.

[Correspondence of the Alexandria Gazette.]

MEMPHIS, TENN., Sept. 23, 1866.—As many of your readers have friends in this city, it may be interesting for them to hear from Memphis occasionally. The city at present presents a very lively appearance, as merchants and planters are arriving daily, for the purpose of purchasing their fall and winter supplies. The weather to the past week has been very changeable, warm, rain, and cold—no morning being so cold that some persons reported frost, but I hardly credit it, as I don't think it has been cold enough for that visitor yet. We had a large and enthusiastic meeting of ex-Confederate officers and soldiers on Tuesday evening last, at Court Square, for the purpose of adopting a series of resolutions, contradictory of the slanderous reports circulated in the North that the lives, liberties, and property of Northern men are unprotected and unsafe in the South. The meeting was addressed by Gens. Forrest, Chalmers and others, and resolutions adopted for publication throughout the United States, a copy of which I enclose. [We have already noticed this meeting.] There was a very large attendance, many ladies being present. On Friday evening, a large meeting, at Old Fellows Hall, was addressed by Gen. R. P. Blair, on the "question of the day." To show the inconsistency of the present Government of this State, I will give what I have learned of the last election held here. Memphis, with a population of at least 50,000, polled a vote of 101, the greater portion of these being "loyal" men imported from the North. So much for the registration law. The "New Memphis Theatre" and the "Greenleaf Opera House" are open to the theatre-going community, and are well crowded nightly. There are eight daily papers (one radical) published here, all well filled with advertisements, which is the best evidence of the prosperity of the city. One of the steamers recently sunk in the Mississippi was owned by the firm of E. S. Plummer & Co., and valued at $70,000; being insured for but $8,000. Mr. P., the senior partner of the firm was formerly a citizen of our town, where he has many friends who will regret to hear of his great loss. He is one of the leading and most popular commission merchants of this city, and is always ready and willing to do what is in his power for his former fellow-townsmen. Messrs. Murray & Ridgely have opened their finely fitted up merchant tailoring establishment, and are confident of success. Col. Morron May is engaged in business in this city. Our townsmen who are here find great friends in Dr. Chancellor, and Mr. Burgess Plummer. The great scare, the cholera, judging from the reports made daily to the health officers, is rapidly decreasing. Alexandrians all well. B. C. W.

GOLD.
New York, September 20.—Gold, 145½.
DIED.
In Baltimore, on Tuesday, the 25th instant, Major LOYAL MASON HOOK, of the late Confederate army, (in which he served on the staff of General Ruggles,) and son of the late Geo. Mason Hook, of King George county, Va. He bore his long illness with great patience, and his unwidowed mother, and his sisters, never relinquished the hope while life lasted, that he would recover, to be to them a protector. But the will of Providence directed otherwise. In his early manhood he was called to another, and a brighter and better world. Long will his relatives and friends remember his many amiable and excellent qualities, his noble and manly character, and his engaging virtues. His affectionate loved him—his family were endeared to him by the tenderest ties which could bind hearts together. The remembrance of such a son, and brother, and friend, will be a consolation even in the midst of the distress and sorrow which must follow the loss of one so young. In this case, the sorrow is tempered by blessed hopes, and heavenly promises, of an immortality beyond the grave.

On the 2nd instant, in Loudoun county, Va., at the residence of his brother-in-law, Sam'l. M. Janney, JOSEPH JANNEY, in the 66th year of his age, formerly a resident of this place. [Baltimore Sun please copy.]

Mr. George H. Moore, of New York, in a work recently published, entitled "Notes on the History of Slavery in Massachusetts," ably exposes the wicked pretension which has characterized the writings and speeches of some Massachusetts so-called statesmen. He shows in minute detail how that the early Massachusetts colonies enslaved the Indians and sold them to the West Indies, how profitable they found the traffic, how they introduced Africans and practiced all the atrocities of the slave-trade, and how the courts, the general assembly, the public press and the pulpit sustained the traffic and the rights of slavery.

We mention this not to cast opprobrium upon the ancestors of the present natives of Massachusetts, but to show how little cause, in their anti-slavery zeal, they have to say to others—"stand off—I am holier than thou!"

MRS. CASTLEMAN IS PREPARED TO re-open her school on Monday, September 17th, at No. 38, South Pitt street, second door from St. Paul's Church. Her school-room is large and airy, and situated in a central and pleasant location.

While drawing no invidious comparison with the excellent schools already established in Alexandria, she feels assured that she can offer advantages equal to any in the place.

She appeals especially to the old Alexandrians, as having herself been a former resident, and the daughter of a native Alexandrian, and more especially to the Episcopalians and Episcopal clergyman, who both fell, with the harness on, in the service of the Church.

Terms, per scholastic year: $21, $32, $40 and $50, according to advancement—payable quarterly in advance.

To meet a long felt want in the education of girls, there will be a sewing class, two afternoons of each week, for which an additional charge of $1.50 per month will be made.

Miss HARRIET L. POWELL, an experienced and successful teacher, will assist in the English Department.

EDUCATIONAL.

RE-OPENING OF ST. JOHN'S COLLEGE, ANNAPOLIS, MD.—This institution, one of the oldest in the State, now actually endowed by the Legislature, will open on the 18th of September next, with an entire re-organization. It is believed that no similar institution offers greater advantages to those wishing to obtain a thorough liberal education, or to pursue a partial course.

These advantages are, in part, the following: 1. Extensive and commodious buildings, thoroughly repaired and refurnished, capable of holding 150 students, and of accommodating more than three hundred—all situated in one of the most beautiful and salubrious localities, and affording ample facilities for a full physical development by boating, swimming, skating, and other healthful and useful exercises. There will also be a well-furnished gymnasium on the premises.

2. A full course in the departments of study usually embraced in a college curriculum, and, in addition, a very extensive range of selection in "Special Departments."

3. Special and prominent attention is given to the study of the history, structure and literature of the English language. Every student receives time of his admission to College will receive a systematic and thorough training in the knowledge and correct use of our mother tongue.
